(Special to The Evening World.) RACE TRACK, BRIGHTON BEACH July 8.—The race track was not a pleasant place this afternoon. It would have been very cool and comfortable had the grand stand faced the ocean instead of inland.

There was an ocean breeze blowing but it might just as well have been of the grand stand cared. None of it penetrated the stand and the major portion of the crowd occupied the betting ring during the afternoon.

The attendance was not large, only about 2,500 persons being present. The track was in excellent shape and there were very few withdrawals from the various events on the card.

Little Matt burst a blood vessel during the fourth race and finished last.

Gutta Percha rushed to the front and was never headed, winning handly by three lengths from Andrews, who was second most of the way. Chiswick was third, eight lengths away. Time— 14124

SECOND RACE.

Intermission cut out the running to the stretch, with Premier second, Emotional third, pocketed on the rall, and Ramiro next. They held this order to the stretch, where Premier went to the front and won by a held from Gold Crest, who came with a terrific rush at the end and beat Intermission three parts of a length for the place. Time—1.02 1-2.

Relief got a couple of lengths the best of the start and this enabled him to hold the lead to the turn. There The Swain went to the front and drawing away won easily by five lengths from King Arthur, who beat Relief a half length for the place. Time-1.02 POURTH BACK

Paladin cut out the running to the stretch, followed by Declare, Long Bridge and Little Matt. When they straightened out Long Bridge made his move, and, passing Paladin, won handly by half a length. Paladin was six lengths in front of Declare. Time—1494.

McAvoy was also found to be injured internally. The hands of the murderer had also come in contact with the wheels of the engine and the steel hand-cuffs had been severed.

Hiding the Blood-Marks

After the attempt at self-destruction the employees at the station got down on the track again with a quantity sand to hide the pools of blood, which had formed on the woodwork and ha also dripped down to the street below. In the street a great crowd had collected to view the work of getting on the victim. No one was arrested, as, course, the engineer of the train was no way to blame.

It had been evident to those who have had McAvoy under their care since the shooting that he would kill himself if he ever got a chance. For this reason he had been closely watched. Although the evidence was convincing against him he persisted in declaring his inno-cence.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 9,-The Cornell crew won their trial heat for the Grand Challenge Cup by default, simply rowing over the course.

This they did leisurely, making the distance, one mile and 550 yards, in eight minutes and eleven seconds. Their rivals, against whom the Ithacans were drawn, the Leander right, refused to take the word at the tarting point and did not row. The word was given and Cornell took the water, rowing the full course. Leander claims not to have been ready when the word was given, and a protest has been filed.

This will give the Ithaca crew an opportunity to start in the final or decisive heat of the race for the Grand Challenge Cup, which will be rowed tomorrow. The Cornell crew left their boat-house at 10 o'clock and paddled their racing shell slowly to the starting point.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 9.—To day's bicycle parade was one of the chief events of this gala week. As the afternoon advanced the streets were lined with spectators, who had gathered from neighboring towns to witness the pageant.

All the vantage spots along the route of parade were grabbed with avidity, and the L. A. W. colors waved from the roofs and winodws in festoons and cir-cling bunting all over town. It would be hard to estimate the total number in line, but it probably exceeds five thousand wheels. The first division formed on the south side of Asbury avenue, with the right resting on Main street.
